1 Titanium dioxide production in China

1.1 Overview

After the rapid growth in the past few years, China has become the biggest titanium dioxide production country in 2009. And as of 2012, the titanium dioxide capacity has reached xxxxt/a.

Meanwhile, the product structure in China has been much more reasonable than it was before. The capacity of rutile titanium dioxide is xxxxt/a in 2012, accounting for about xxx% of the total capacity, while the figure was xxxxt/a in 2006, about xxx% of the total.

Price soaring was a keyword to Chinese titanium dioxide industry in the past. For example, the price of rutile titanium dioxide has increased to over USDxxx/t in June 2011, from only about USDxxx/t at the beginning of 2010. However, from later 2012 to early 2013, the price of titanium dioxide in China decreases constantly.

1.2 Current titanium dioxide production situation

1.2.1 Titanium dioxide production information

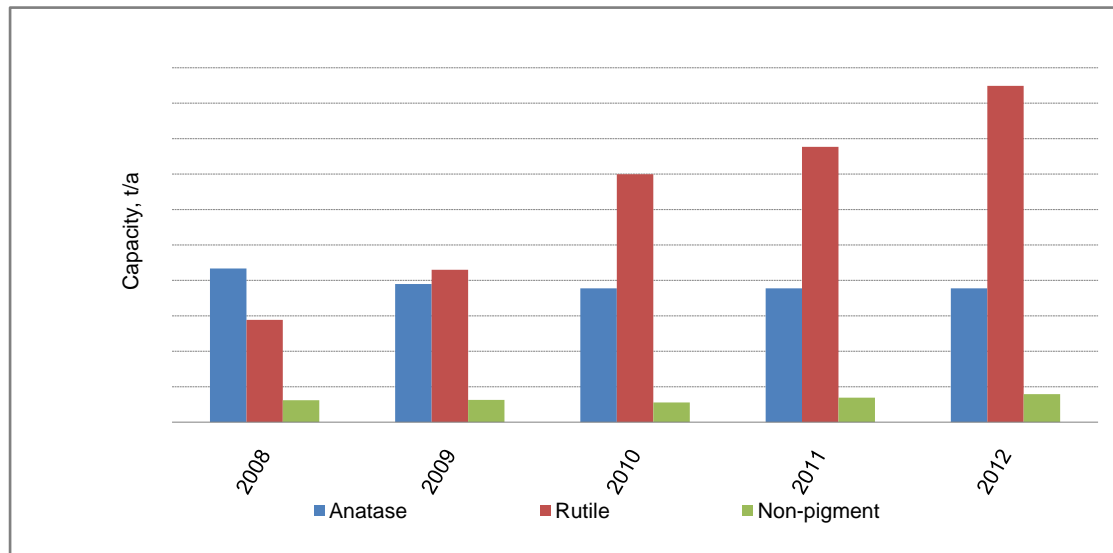

The production of titanium dioxide in China has accomplished a stable increase in the past five years. The operating rate is xxx% in 2012, compared with xxx% in 2011. The production of titanium dioxide in China enters a slow growing trend.

Domestic titanium dioxide capacity has increased from xxx/a to xxxt/a in 2008–2012, and the output has increased from xxx tonnes to xxxx tonnes, with a CAGR of xxx%.
