China Coatings & Adhesives News

China is the largest adhesive producer and the second coating producer in the world. Due to the insufficient supply and backward production technology for high grade coatings, lack of national brands, China has to spend several billions importing high-end coating & adhesive.

The largest markets for coating & adhesive are in the architecture, automobile, furniture and electronic consumer goods, all demonstrating strong growth trend with over 10% growth rate, and these industries maintain double-digit growth rate each year. What will be the future trends and requirement, and what significant impact will they bring about to the coating & adhesive industry?

Meanwhile, the market of coating additive agent is predicted to swell to USD0.955 billions by 2011 with a compound annual growth rate of 13.2%. The large import for the raw materials of adhesives, such as PU, PA, epoxy resin, EVA, SIS and neoprene, will grow by 10% each year.

China is relatively weak in research on new kinds of coating & adhesive, especially non-toxic, low-toxic, low VOC, non-solvent, high solid-content and water-based coatings & adhesives. Knowing the latest development of the innovations in technology and trends in the market will help you find faster and easier access to China's market. Besides, closely follow-up of government policies will definitely help you make quicker and wiser decisions.
